THE CHIEF MURDER CASE.

The Slayer of George Robinson in Court Ready for Trial.
Court convened this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, pursuant to adjournment, Judge Wilks presiding. The first case called for trial was that of the People against Harry Griffin, the colored barber, who on the last Sunday night in last October shot another colored man, George Robinson, through the heart, death resulting in a short time. The bloody affray took place near the water fountain in front of John Irwin's white front clothing store, and was witnessed by at least two persons, the wife of the murdered man and Mr. Price, a venerable colored man, who was acting in the role of a peace-maker, while two and some say three shots were heavily a number of other persons. The onset of the murder is said to have grown out of Griffin's alleged improper relations with Robinson's wife. All were at the African Methodist church that fatal Sunday night, and after the service, near the foot of South Main street, George struck Harry over the head with a heavy cane, telling him to get on up town, and on the way there was more or less loud talk, caused by the threats of Griffin. At the inquest Mr. Price and Mr. Robinson testified that when they had reached the pavement in front of postoffice block, Griffin came walking rapidly down Merchant street toward them with a pistol swinging in his hand, and when he came up to them he asked, "Who was it that struck me?" Robinson replied, "I did," and with that the firing commenced, Mr. Price standing between the two men; but Griffin reached into the heart of Robinson. One stray bullet imbedded itself in the window frame in front of M. E. Schroeder's cigar store, from which it was taken the next morning by Sheriff Foster. Both men had pistols of 38-calibre style. Robinson ran around the corner of "Our Drug Store," and at the alley he reeled and fell upon his back in the mud. He was picked up gasping and died in the drug store a few minutes afterward. Griffin didn't try to escape. He stood about the corner and was taken in custody by Officer Reynolds. He admitted having shot Robinson.
Griffin is a member of the colored lodge of Odd Fellows, and came here from Jerseyville some years ago. He was employed at Singleton's barber shop. Robinson was one of the best known and most respected of the industrious colored residents of the city. He was an official member of the African Methodist church and a member of the Masonic fraternity.
The counsel for the defendant is Judge Nelson, and Mr. Johns appears for the People.
Sortously Hurt.
Saturday evening while coasting on the Emden Hill George Bell, book-keeper at the Union Iron Works, had the misfortune to receive injuries which have caused him great pain and will incapacitate him for active duty for some time. One of his knee caps was nearly jerked out of place besides lacerating the flesh of the limb. George has a swollen limb to-day and can scarcely move. A lad named Taylor was also slightly hurt the same evening. This coasting business is attended with much danger, and the many misadventures that have occurred should serve as a warning to the more reckless glid-ers to go a little slow--if they can.
Comedy and Music To-Night.
The Jolly Currie Swain comedy company is now in the city and will appear at the opera house to-night. Said an exchange: "Never has a star been received with more favor by our theatre goers, Miss Swain was complimented with a double call before the curtain at the end of each act, and the demands for encores to her songs and dances found limit only to consideration for the lady's physical endurance. The piece is by Lea Grover, of "Boarding House" fame, and is, as the author says, his best. It has an interesting plot, with exciting situations and climaxes in each act. Numerous songs and dances are introduced, and throughout the five acts there is no opportunity to tire." Admission 35, 50 and 75 cents.
Go, go.
At Lincoln to-morrow forenoon O. A.
Carpenter will be asked to stand up before Judge Jordan and plead guilty or not guilty to the charge of murder. Old man Burns is at Lincoln. He is credited with having said that there are men there who are ready to lynch Carpenter if he will only give the word. He occupies the same position that Ool. Bond did at Taylorville, according to his statements.
During the past month Rev. Mr. Simon, pastor of the African Methodist Church, assisted by members of his congregation, has been conducting a very successful series of revival meetings at the new house of worship. Thus far there have been 100 conversions and many anxious, inquiring ones crowd about the altar nightly. Frisky evening, one young woman knelt at the altar, and there she clung until after one o'clock in the morning, trying hard to obtain the blessing she so anxiously craved; but the struggle was in vain, and she went home with friends sobbing bitterly. The revival will be kept up this week.

CHARGED WITH A LARGE BARN ON

Samuel McRoberts places a short distance east of the city was set on fire, and was entirely consumed together with its contents. It is believed that the barn was fired by a party of six Deatur boys, a warrant for whose arrest on charge of arson was sworn out by Mr. McRoberts.
Marshal Mason arrested three of the boys on Sunday. Their names are Payne, Cruckshaw and Donahue, and all live in the fifth ward. The loss of Mr. McRoberts is several hundred dollars.
Officers Elected.
At the annual election of the Deatur Mutual County Fire Insurance Company the following persons were elected directors: Milton Clark, M. Eichinger, S. P.
Nickey, Joshua Green, John M. Mollitt, Stephen Malinwah, H. O. Kaylor, O.
Gibson and D. P. Keller. The board was organized by the election of D. P. Keller, President, S. P. Nickay, Secretary, and M. Eichinger, Treasurer. The Company is in a prosperous condition.
Beady Hurt.
This morning at six o'clock Mr. Isaac D. Litz, the engineer at the Deatur tray factory, stumbled against a log and fell headlong upon the frozen ground. He fell on his shoulder, which was dislocated, as was also the collar bone. There was a small fracture of the shoulder blade, and this serious combination of injuries will lay up Mr. Litz for several months. He boards at No. 300 North Franklin street, where he was attended by Dr. R. L. Wal-son.

city Saturday evening from the Elson place and turned over to Officer Brewer, who placed them behind the bars in the county jail. The lads are accused of destroying property on the Elson farm, and will be dealt with accordingly before a

The Baker & Farson comedy company arrived in the city Saturday and registered at the New Deatur. At night they gave a patchwork of comedy business at the opera house before a fair-sized audience. "The Government House" at a frontier post was the scene of the foolishness, which was made quite entertaining by the singing and acts of Farson and the orchestral and band accompaniments.

A Miraculous Escape.
The P. D. & E. passenger train going northwest on Friday, on a crossing near Joliet ran into a wagon containing two men. The engine struck the wagon and threw it high into the air, and the occupants also went on an aerial trip. The train was stopped and backed up to the place of the accident and both train and passengers expected to find a couple of mangled and bleeding corpses. The wagon was split into kindling wood, even the wheels being so badly wrecked that not a piece of one of them could be found except the tire. The horses had run away. Neither of the men were injured. Bloomington Pantagraph.

better and bids fair to recover.
Aston's Condition.
Dr. J. H. Axton, who received severe injuries in the fight with Doctor Phillips, is still confined to his bed, and is reported to be in a very serious condition. -Marion News.
Parties down from Marion to-day say that Dr. Axton's condition still remains critical. Two doctors from Clinton have examined him, and they say he is in dangerous shape, that one of his limbs will be paralyzed, and that if fatal effects follow they will attack the brain. The nasal bone was broken, and this injury will probably affect the brain. The fight was a very unfortunate affair for both Axton and Phillips, and as there is a possibility of the affair ending fatally, it becomes quite serious.

Song of an Old Maid.
During last week Lutz & Wise, music dealers, while in a distant part of the county, exact location not known, bought an old "Metropolitan" organ, rusty, musty and dusty with age. They brought it to the city, and hidden away in the top was found this poetical effusion:
You may talk of love and happiness, love,
Of marriage and so forth, most people do;
But I want a life that is careless and free, So an old maid's life is the life for me.
For she has no husband to fret and to scold If the toast is too hot or the coffee too cold; No children, who must be fed, clothed, and bumped;
Or find themselves always in danger of mumps.
Her pleasures are many, her care is but few;
And whenever she does what she wishes to do,
And there is no one to bother her as all husbands will,
When she gets a new bonnet and gets a new bill.
Be marriage for those who prefer to be bound With the hard chain of wedlock their members around;
But give me a life that is careless and free,
So the life of an old maid is the life for me.
The Milliken Concert.
The talented Miss Jeffers, of Terre Haute, will lend her presence at the Dollie Milliken concert to be given Friday evening. Her singing is thus commended by an exchange: Miss Helen Jeffers, retiring, modest and graceful, gave "The Robin Song" in the Linden Tree, in most delicious mello-dy and for encore sang, "Sweet, Sweet Home" in soft rippling notes, her voice dying away like the warble of a sweet country, forcing from many an eye, tears, born of tender emotions, springing from the love of home and mother. This lady reminds us strongly of Jenny Lind in "The Yachet". Her world renowned "Calling of the Crows" was not to us more satisfactory than the sweet trills of Miss Jeffers, in this simple melody.

The "World"--A Drama.
The grand scenic drama, "The World," will be produced at the opera house Thursday night in all its amazing entirety. See it. Said the Cleveland Press: The advance agent of J. Z. Little's World company is in the city. Little's version, the original and best one, is mainly different from that of the Brooks & Dickson company. An Irishman divides the honors with the wicked Hebrew, and in the last scene two women hold the boards with the hero of the play. It will be remembered that in the other World company the heroine escapes the accompaniment of a voyage on the raft, and has comparatively an easy time of it, while the hero, with no raft and only 10 drops of water is suffering on the raft. It will be readily seen that this is unjust and cruel, and that Little has a more correct conception of the fitness of things in compelling the heroine to stand her chance with the raft.
